NFCUS Sponsors Visit to U of M

Academic, Social Activities Planned

McGill students will visit the 'Université du Montréal' campus on Saturday at 1:30 pm for the McGill-University of Montreal day program of academic and social activities.

To get the proceedings underway Mr. L.P. Audet of Laval U and Mr. A.R. Lower of Queens will compare the various merits of the English and French educational systems and the problems arising from them.

Following this all students will be divided into ten commissions in which they may discuss and exchange their views on educational themes.

The fundamental purpose of this project is to let French speaking students know how English speaking students live and vice versa. French students follow a more classical type curriculum, including Greek, Latin, Philosophy and History as compulsory courses whereas at McGill the specialization immediately after high school is stressed.

Cocktails will be served at the end of the afternoon at which time Jim Robb and Omar Poulain, the president of the students' societies of the two universities, will speak.

A bus will leave the steps of the Arts Building at 1 pm on Saturday, Nov. 21, for the U of M. All those with cars available are asked to be in front of the Arts Building at this time to take along any extra passengers.

Conservatory Opens Classical Record Library

The McGill Conservatory of Music announces the re-opening of its record library which last year, was forced to close due to the fact that the gramophone was broken and many irreplaceable records had been greatly damaged.

Due to donation from the Libidon Gramophone Co., which donated to McGill a High Fidelity Gramophone, together with a complete library of classical long playing records, various recitals can now be held. These recitals will be held each week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from 1 pm to 3 pm, and will be open to all students who are interested.

Certain periods and classes of music will be featured at different times during these 3 days each week. These are as follows: Wednesday, 1-2, will feature various music by request. From 2-3, there will be music of the Baroque period, a period in music and literature between the Renaissance and the pre-Classical periods. On Thursday from 1-2, there will be music of the 20th century featuring such composers as Vaughan Williams. From 2-3 on Thursday, music of the Middle Ages and Renaissance will be played. On Friday from 1-3, there will be continuous music of the Pre-Classical, Classical and Romantic eras, featuring such composers as Beethoven, Mozart, and Haydn.

These recitals will all be held in the Conservatorium Hall, 3450 Drummond Street, Room 1. Students attending these concerts may bring their lunch, and in order not to disturb the other people attending they will sit in an adjoining room which will be equipped with a loudspeaker, and will enter the main room after they have finished their lunch.

Also of interest to music-lovers, will be a series of music lectures which will be held on the first and third Mondays of each month. These lectures will be open to the public as well as the students and will begin on Monday Nov. 23 at 8 pm.

No Stunts In Charities Campaign

No stunts, dances or cocktail parties will be used in raising money for the Combined Charities campaign this year. The method instead will be straight canvassing with altogether 800 students involved in making the contacts.

The objective for the 1953 campaign, which will take place during the week of Nov. 23-29, is $5,000. A total of $3,500 was raised last year. Thirty-three per cent of whatever sum is raised in the present campaign will be allotted to the World University Service for use in the completion of a student hospital in India.

The Women's Union will act as co-chairman of the campaign. It will appoint seven section heads, under each of whom will be ten group captains, thus making 77 co-eds in all. Each group captain will have ten lists with the names of ten people on each. The captain will call one person on each list who will be asked to contact the other ten. In this way all of McGill's 7,000 students will be canvassed.

The officers of Combined Charities this year are: chairman, Dick Vanden Bergh; canvassing chairman, Wilson Southam; treasurer, Norman La Pouch; publicity, Em Nicolalde; secretary, Merna Perry; and Women's Union representatives, Pat Flannagan, Pauline Mowat; other members of the committee, Betsy Alexander and Keith Ham.

"Due to the keenness of the students who are putting so much time and work into the campaign, I am confident that this may well be a record breaking year for McGill Combined Charities," said Dick Vanden Bergh, Chairman of the campaign.

DAILY STAFF

There will be a meeting of the entire Daily staff on Tuesday, Nov. 24 at 1 p.m. in the Daily News office. All Daily staffers from all departments are asked to attend.

Players' Club Opening Night Tonight For First Production

"Legend of Lovers", this year's Players' Club Arena production, will open tonight at 8.45 pm in the Union Ballroom. This play, written by Jean Anouilh, is based on the well known legend of Orpheus and Euridice, and is being performed in theatre-in-the-round style.

Tickets are still available at the price of 65 cents, for McGill students, and can be bought in the Union of Arts Building between 12 and 2 daily.

Heading the cast is Heiko Schlieper, an Arts student, who is playing the part of Orpheus. Mr. Schlieper has taken part in Players' Club experimental and has also performed in the production of "Twelfth Night" by the English Department.

Euridice is taken by Gerda Rother, who may be remembered from last year's play "Goodbye My Fancy". Miss Rother has been associated with the Mountain Playhouse, C.B.C. Radio, and has performed in "The Enchanted", a play staged by the M.R.T.

Coorinne Copnick, well known for her monologues, is taking the part of the mother. Miss Copnick played the lead in last year's Players' Club production of "Goodbye My Fancy", has performed in the Red and White Review, and has worked with the Mountain Playhouse, the C.B.C.

Radio Broadcasts, Canadian Playhouse, and the 1951 Ballet Festival with the Ruth Sorel troupe. Miss Copnick also won a University Scholarship.

The father is to be portrayed by Bunny Miller, who is now working on his Ph.D. in Chemistry. Mr. Miller, as well as being president of the Players' Club, has taken part in Mountain Playhouse productions, and has had a featured role in "The Butter and Egg Man" cast last summer. The production manager for "Legend of Lovers" is Ed Bell, the vice-president of the club. Born in England, he is now completing his final year in Engineering. (Continued on page 4)

WUS Seminar Delegates Say India Needs Aid

Delegates to the World University Service Seminar, held in Mysore, India, this summer, returned with an urgent appeal for American contributions to aid the Indian university community through the program of WUS. The extent of need overwhelmed the American travellers who visited university centres throughout India.

More than one hundred students and professors attended the 5 week long Mysore meeting. Delegates from India, Pakistan, Japan, Indonesia, Malaya, Thailand, Ceylon, the Lebanon, Israel, and Uganda, as well as Americans, Canadians, and Europeans were present at the seminar.

The delegates seemed unanimous in their agreement that more financial aid should be supplied to India in her "battle of need". Those attending the seminar travelled throughout India, Pakistan, Kashmir, and Ceylon, in the three weeks which followed the termination of the meeting, countries. They visited WUS projects prior to their return to their own projects, dams, development projects, community centers, villages and universities. The American delegation met such Indian leaders as Prime Minister Nehru, Vice-President Radhakrishnan, and members of the Planning Commission. They attended weddings, teas, dinners, and receptions; many talked with business leaders, refugees, and common people to learn something of India's problems; they visited WUS projects like the student ward at the Tambarum TB Sanatorium where twenty students at one time are given a chance to conquer the disease, and the YUS textbook section in the Allgarh University Library.

The WUS Central International Program projects in India for the year 1953-54 will total more than $20,000.

David Grier, member of the Canadian delegation to the seminar will write a series of articles concerning the meeting, which will appear in the Daily starting next week. Mr. Grier personally thinks that Canadian aid to India through the Colombo Plan should be increased.

German Club The German Club will hold its first debate of the year on 'Tomorrow at 8 p.m. These debates, in which teams of men and girls will compete for the Club Trophy, will be held in the Club Room of the Union, Mr. H. Walter, a graduate student of German, will chairman the meeting.

Two topics are to be debated. These are (in translation): should Austria and Germany unite and become a single country, and, does a girl lose more than she gains at university. The audience will be invited to air its views after the various arguments have been put forward, and will alone act as judge. Refreshments will be available.

Varsity Still In NFCUS

Fee Raise Rejection Involves $2,500

Toronto has decided not to secede from the National Federation of Canadian University Students but has rejected any fee raise for this year.

This decision, according to Antonio Enriquez, president of NFCUS, has wiped out any chance for a paid full-time president this year. Toronto's repudiation of the stand taken by the delegates at the conference will mean that the revenues of NFCUS for this year will be $2,500 less than provided for in the budget.

Southern U.S. University Admits First Negro

LOUISIANA, (Exchange) — A tall, 17-year old Negro—son of a New Orleans attorney—last month won the right to enroll in the combined college of arts and sciences and law at Louisiana State University.

By doing so, the student—A.P. Tureaud, Jr.—became the first of his race to gain admission to any of the South's white undergraduate schools.

Tureaud was admitted only after a series of court battles with the university. LSU argued that Southern University, a Negro school, has equal facilities for young people interested in law. LSU added that "because of the history, traditions, customs and usages of the people of the state of Louisiana, segregation of whites and blacks is necessary to preserve and promote friendly relations and mutual understanding between white and coloured persons".

U.S. District Judge J. Skelly Wright upheld Tureaud's contention that Southern's facilities did not compare with LSU's and said denial of admission "solely because of race and color" was contrary to a right granted the Negro by the 14th amendment.

Plans had been made for Enriquez to speak at the Students Society meeting tomorrow but these have been cancelled. According to an informed source, his visit has been called off because it was felt that he would not have a sympathetic reception at this meeting. Enriquez is planning a western tour to better acquaint the western universities with NFCUS and this was another reason for the cancellation of his trip to Montreal.

The question of whether or not McGill should increase its fees to NFCUS is not on the agenda for tomorrow's meeting, nor is it likely that there will be any discussion on the Federation.

The position of NFCUS national president required that Enriquez give up a year of his schooling to devote all his time to the federation. He would be paid a salary to travel from university to university across Canada publicizing NFCUS.

The adoption of a full-time president at the conference here last month was called "the largest NFCUS project for nationalizing Canadian student activity." Without Toronto's support there is no chance to have this project implemented this year.

Asked to explain what Toronto commitments had been made at the conference, Scott Symons, Toronto NFCUS chairman stated that Toronto had refused to guarantee a NFCUS raise.

NFCUS Canada-wide Story Contest Open

Carleton (CUP) The NFCUS-sponsored nationwide short story contest is now open.

The plan, originated by Carleton College at the recent NFCUS conference at Montreal, is being directed by Carleton and Bishop's University.

Carleton is in charge of organizing the contest in all NFCUS-member universities west of Ottawa. Bishop's is directing it in eastern Canadian universities.

The contest, part of the NFCUS program to foster a Canadian culture in our universities, is open to all students attending a university belonging to NFCUS.

The best short stories, picked by local judges, will be submitted to the two directing colleges. A further elimination will then take place, and the selected best from eastern and western Canada will be placed before a final judging committee.

Several prizes will be awarded the winning stories.

Conditions of the contest are as follows:

1. The writer must be a student in good standing at NFCUS-member university.
2. Entries are to be submitted to any member of the Students' Council.
3. Entries can be written in either French or English and must not have been printed before in any but student publications.
4. Subject matter is unlimited.
5. A word limit of 3,000 words is suggested.
6. All stories and rights to stories remain the property of the writer. However, manuscripts will be returned only if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
7. There is no entry fee.
8. Names of the winners will be published in The Carleton Campus newspapers will, if possible, publish the winning stories.

Tentative deadlines have been set. Stories for regional judging should be entered early in December. This will give the regional judging boards time to evaluate the material and send the winners to Carleton and Bishop's by the beginning of the year.

Bob Frayne, who is directing Carleton's participation in the program, says that he hopes to have the final winners selected by February.

McGill Students Receive Parts In Frontier Film

McGill students are helping to contribute to the success of the first large film venture that Montreal has ever undertaken.

When Frontier Films sent out a request for actors to be used in filming a group of TV shorts, the response from the students of this university was immediate. Bunny Miller, President of the Players Club, Corinne Copnick, Dundie Weintraub, and Rowan Joseph from McGill have all been given speaking parts, while several others have been hired as extras.

"The Capsule TV Mysteries", as the series is called, will be a deciding factor in the future of the Canadian motion picture industry. These films are being sent to the US for the use over American TV channels, and if they are successful another series will be produced.

This new industry will give students interested in drama an opportunity to work on this side of the border instead of seeking employment in the U.S. Mr. H. Mingo Sweeney, Chairman of the board of film concern, said that the success of the film would have its effect on McGill students insofar as they are interested in acting and the production of movies.

Repeat Performance

Five years ago, Western Mustangs met the University of Toronto Blues at Varsity Stadium in a playoff game to decide the Intercollegiate championship. On that occasion in November 1948, the Varsity Blues scored a decisive 18-7 victory over the Mustangs. The stage is set this Saturday for a repeat performance by these two rivals.

On the season's play the teams appear to be closely matched. The Blues were slightly favored as a result of their 12-0 win over Western two weeks ago. John Metras' men however are always dangerous. The Mustangs have displayed a lot of power on the ground this season, coming from behind a ten point deficit to beat the Blues 13-10 in London.

The score gave no indication of the play in Kingston as the Blues beat Frank Tindall's Gaels 6-1. Varsity actually showed a crushing ground offensive rolling up 21 first downs and out rushing the Gaels by 370 yards to 30. Muntz, McFarlane and Pinkney were the big ground gainers for the Blues who pushed Queen's back time after time but were unable to get the ball over the goal line.

McFarlane finally finished off a drive in the fourth quarter taking a pitchout from Skrzypek for the score. The Blues however, didn't show too well in the passing department as they only completed 3 out of 13.

The only player who felt sad after the McGill-Western game was George Klein. Before game time, he stood on the sidelines, looked out at the lightning fast grass, looked down at his arm which was strapped because of a shoulder separation suffered in practice a few days before and quickly went back to the dressing room. It would have been his last game for the Red and White, and the playing field was tailored for his speed and ability.

"Worth It"

Earl Merling sat off to one side after the game, holding a towel to the front of his face, looked up when asked how his nose was and said, "Broken, but it was worth it".

The little guard Vince Capogreco agreed with the rest of the boys when he said that this game was the one he wanted to win most of all. It was a brilliant climax to a relatively poor season which saw the Redmen wind up in a tie for third place with Queen's.

Shuttle Play Opens Nov. 26

The men's intramural badminton tournament, under the supervision of Al Malley, will get under way in the Currie gym on Nov. 26. Those who would like to enter, may do so by signing up in the gym. The deadline for entries is Nov. 23. Participants must supply their own racquets but birds will be available. This is really a wonderful opportunity to have lots of fun and at the same time to gain some tournament experience.

Intramural Squash Gets Under Way

Coach Al Molloy announced yesterday that the Intramural Squash Tournament will begin on November 26. Anyone wishing to enter the tournament can sign up at either the Athletics Office or the Racquet Room of the Sir Arthur Currie Gym.

Last year over one hundred contestants took part in this tournament, making it the most popular on the campus. Arts and Science took the team championship and will be favoured to repeat again this year. Ian Bruce, an engineer, and Derek Calderon, an Artisan, tied for individual honours last year, being named co-champions.

McGill has fared well in intercollegiate squash competition in the past having taken the championship for the last two years. Besides intercollegiate play, the squash team also plays several American colleges, both here and in the U.S., as well as taking part in the various tournaments in Montreal. The selection of this year's team will be based partly on the results of the intramural tourney and so prospective team members will have a chance to show squash coach Al Molloy what they can do in tournament competition.

Coed Intra Swimming

by Rona Silverman

Timers and judges, swimmers take your marks, get ready, go! With these time honoured words, the women's intra-mural swimming meet was launched. Yes, last night at eight o'clock, the coeds took their mark, got set and went. With them went many long established records. The girls really burnt up the lanes displaying great style, spirit and sportsmanship.

Science 1 and Phys Ed 1 and 2 were neck and neck and neck right through, only one point separating them going into the final race. The Scientists won it by a finger nail slithering the 100 yd. free style relay record.

Dottie Greetham not only organized the meet but took time off from her managing duties to win three events.

Daphne Turpel, the fresette flash from Fort Williams, raced like a house on fire, capturing two firsts and two seconds. Performing these feats she smashed two records: the 25 yd. free style; and the 50 yd.

Anne Turnbull copped top honours eclipsing the top mark hitherto set for the 25 yd. side stroke classic.

Redmen Polo Team Downed By YMCA

by Lewis Batshaw

A YMCA flood hit the Red waterpolo squad last night full blast, and when the deluge had ceased, Norm Ashton's boys found themselves thoroughly waterlogged, outplayed and outscored. The Dominion champ contingent subdued the Redmen 7-3 in a regular league fixture at the Memorial Pool.

Led by Drasko Bubalo and Pete Geukers, the Y led the home club 1-0 all quarters to post a convincing triumph. Bubalo notched 4 counters as he continued his brilliant play in the league and Geukers drove home three markers. Billy White, who is undoubtedly one of Canada's finest goalies turned in a good game, as he thwarted several formidable McGill threats.

Jackie Novick, a stalwart for the McGills now for three years was held to one goal, but nevertheless made a strong contribution with his usual driving play. Gelfand, a freshman who shows promise tipped in a long shot by Robbie Cook, who broke well and played effectively at half-way throughout the whole encounter. Arnie Steinberg, scored the Red team's last goal with a beautiful effort from close outside the Y net. He was able to get his goodshot away despite the desperate efforts of the Y defence. Herbie Hops turned in an adequate game in goal, and came through with several important stops. Krka contributed a sound game on defense.

The Y opened up in the first quarter to give strong indication that this squad would eventually predominate. Bubalo drove home one marker on a hard shot, while Geukers counted twice.

McGill came through with its first counter of the tilt in the second quarter, as Novick scored on a dynamic drive with the Y's Ian MacDonald serving a penalty.

Gelfand continued the home contingent's scoring as he managed to tip in a long shot by Robbie Cook.

The Y notched four more markers in the remaining part of the third and fourth quarter, as Bubalo scored three, and Geukers one. Steinberg scored the last counter of the game to make Ashton's boys total of 3.

Ski Patrol Issues Book

Now that Montreal has had its first snowstorm, the thoughts of every ski enthusiast wander towards those ever-loved Laurentian slopes and trails. This year for the first time, the Ski Patrol, the guardians of the hills, have published a booklet on Laurentian skiing.

Included in this booklet are both the zone and intercollegiate schedules for the coming season. Also there can be found the Laurentian Ski Reports on any place; with its facilities for skiing, such as the hills, the angle of the slopes, the various named and unnamed trails, and the tow conditions. Another note of interest is that the highways and train routes are included in a massive map of the Laurentians which is complete to the last tow and trail. There is also a short history of the Ski Patrol, and basic first aid hints.

This is a 28 page hard-covered booklet. The best thing about this book is the fact that it is absolutely free. Those interested are asked to give their name and address to the Desk Editor of the Daily, or drop it in the Daily Box in the Union.

Oh! there once was a frosh who came To Varsity for some fame, But he found that those bears Who are called "enginals", Had gone and stolen the same.

Women of McGill, arise! Social justice will be done. Too long have we watched in silence while the authorities of this university unwittingly but surely brought about the downfall and destruction of McGill men. It is unfair to our brother students to allow this to continue. We must act. Here are the facts:

Women at McGill are more highly prized than men. Out-of-town co-eds are carefully nurtured and guarded throughout their undergraduate years. Girls who live in residence are, for their own good, put on a wisely devised leaves system which allows them reasonable freedom in their social life while still safeguarding them from their own inexperience in determining such important matters as at what hour they shall be in on Saturday night.

It is a proven fact that boys at least the first two college years are socially more immature than girls at the same age-level. Yet out-of-town men who live in residence, who should in view of this fact be more carefully protected than their sisters in RVC, are allowed to run wild, are deprived of all but the most nominal of restrictions.

Under the present system a college boy — average age 17 or 18 — is snatched from the loving bosom of his family, who have gently nursed him through his teens, making sure that he did not stay out too late, and that he neglected neither his studies nor his health. He is plunked down probably many miles from home in a strange city — a large and wicked city — in which he finds himself completely on his own.

Inexperienced as he is, he yields to temptation. He goes out in the evenings too often and stays out too late. He grows pale and anemic-looking from lack of sleep. He does not do any studying. By the end of the college year he is a physical wreck and, after he is through cramming seven months' studying into three weeks, he is a mental wreck as well. Is it fair to him that we should allow this state of affairs to continue?

NO! We must not. As the wisest, the more mature sex, we must act. This reporter proposes that the men's residences of this university adopt a leaves system similar to that employed in RVC with the single exception that, in all cases, the boys' leaves be one half hour later than the equivalent RVC leave for obvious reasons.

Women of McGill, arise, unite! This much we can do for our men.

rior to Latin, while being every bit as good as "mental discipline". In this way, the student would also be stimulated into thinking critically; a skill neglected in modern education, he thought.

He suggested, also, that some standing committee be constantly looking into matters of curriculum and evaluating the existing course-structure in terms of the changing situation. This committee would then make recommendations to be carried out on the administrative level. "Apply scientific method to modern education" he said.

In conclusion Dr. Bhadra advised that some check be made into the usefulness of university subjects in everyday living. He said he was at loss to point out a concrete example of the usefulness of Latin in everyday life.

tion of the specialist but of little value to anyone else. The tradition of ignorance goes on and these dead languages are still taught without reflection why. This negligence is especially found in classics enthusiasts who insist that their instruction gives them better thinking and orderly thought. It is suggested by these conclusions that the study of the classical languages should be dropped and something more productive substituted. Surely, in final analysis, the basis of an educational program should be something more than the loud moaning of a sacred cow or the braying of its defenders!

NFCUS and the Challenge

NFCUS is indeed very sick. This fact has now been recognized by many of its members, but unfortunately they have taken poor advice and are applying the wrong remedy. The last few conferences have exposed nakedly a very basic disease in the federation, a disease that can be traced directly to its relationship with Canadian students. There is something sorely lacking here, something without which the organization is meaningless. NFCUS has failed to serve the student community, and the reason for this is simply that no real student community exists in Canada. This is the ailment; now is it to be corrected? How can the organization help to mould a strong, informed community of scholars which recognizes and accepts the challenge of responsibility at home and abroad? The answer given by the last two conferences is: let us first achieve unity at home, develop a national student consciousness by promoting national projects, and forget about international responsibilities for the time being. Is such a policy valid? Will it provide a solution to the problem? Many people do not believe so, and this is why.

In the first place, the idea of national unity has been very badly misconstrued, and the federation is labouring under a misconception. National unity does not mean unanimous agreement with statements of policy and decisions of action. It means only that the whole of the student body has considered a problem, and that a majority has reached a certain decision. It is total participation which is required, not total agreement. Once the federation has unburdened itself of this false concept of unity, then it can proceed to develop a national consciousness which grows out of more complete participation by the students in the formulation of decisions, not complete agreement among them.

How then is such a national consciousness to be developed? By insulating ourselves from the rest of the world and working on a national five year plan of cultural projects and activities? This is what the federation now seems to believe; this is the remedy which it thinks will cure its illness. And it is exactly what the federation has tried to do for the past score of years. We need look back only one year to see what aroused the Canadian student body most, drew it together from coast to coast, challenged it to think about something of significance and to reach a considered opinion. It was the question of the Russian student exchange. This was a challenge from outside; it demanded careful scrutiny by every student, for it dared him to face his responsibility to the world and to examine his way of life. And it is so with the question of associate membership with the IUS. The rest of the world looks on as we reply to these questions, and judges our intentions and our integrity by our answers.

Two years ago we set forth a sound and reasonable policy with regard to the IUS. Unless that organization was willing to meet certain conditions which we plainly demanded, we would have nothing to do with its activities. Now that there is a chance that these statements will at least be considered, we change our policy and say that an "investigation" must first be made. Such an investigation is utterly meaningless unless our International Activities Commission communicates directly with the IUS, and again presents it with the conditions which we demand before we undertake any further association with it. But those who argue in support of this original attitude are now looked upon with suspicion. No wonder many people are beginning to ask which way the iron curtain faces. Then who will dare to stand between the barriers and look both ways? Our present policy is one of national isolationism. How long will it be before we grow up to our responsibilities and realize that this is a world of people, not a world of nations? If NFCUS will not face the challenge from abroad, it may be necessary to challenge it from within.

Brian Goodwin,
NFCUS Chairman.

Students Present A Variety Show In Moyse Hall

"The Flying Carpet", a variety show written and produced by McGill students, will be presented to the public in Moyse Hall from December 3 to 8.

The show consists of about twelve numbers — songs, dances and scenes — each one characteristic of one of the many nationalities represented at McGill. It will be on the lines of last year's "Flying Carpet", with a new theme and new material. The total cast will number over a hundred.

The "Flying Carpet" is being sponsored by the McGill International House Committee in order to raise money to contribute toward the building of an International House at McGill residence and a social meeting place for Canadian and foreign students.

The Committee has presented Dr. James with its newly proposed plan which calls for a fund to be set up by the University for the construction of the International House. The overall direction of the fund has been entrusted to an advisory committee of staff, students and graduates under the chairmanship of Dr. James. This committee is in the process of formation at the present time.

The raising of the required money will not be attempted by a direct financial appeal, but instead will be attempted through student efforts. However, donations from all sources will be accepted and will be subject to income tax exemptions.

The show is supported by twelve student organizations and various national groups in the city.

The producer of the "Flying Carpet" this year is Peter Hall and director is George Arellano. Tickets will be on sale at the McGill Union at 75 cents each, starting November 20. The show is open to the public as well as to students.

Up 'N Over

With the McGill Outing Club

By Ed Blanshoy

Strange things are happening around McGill these days. It seems that the RVC ski house is disappearing into the ground. Now we don't want to seem too optimistic, but if the RVC house is going to H-1?, (and that's the only place it could go, since it's sinking), why then the MOC house up in Shawbridge will soon be the skiing headquarters for RVC as well. This will be good news to those MOCers who have found that there is a lack of members from the fairer sex represented at the house over the weekends. As a matter of fact there were no co-eds at all up at the house this past weekend. A fact which sorely distressed Tom Newton, the only male member present. However, with the skiing season so near at hand ("seems to me I've heard that song before") the house will once again become the skiing fraternity of McGill, and every weekend will see a crowd of thirty to sixty skiers making use of the club's facilities.

The woodsman's weekend turned out to be the best event of the MOC team was concerned. Although we placed fourth in the competition, we actually did win the last event on the program — water bolting. For a team that never practiced together, the MOC team did extremely well, placing second in several of the events. A vote of thanks goes out to Hugh Dentith, Byron (the slide rule) Pinder, and Janet Cross for the time they spent in arranging the program; and we mustn't forget the hard working timers and judges or the girls who prepared the coffee. (Pardon us, it was hot chocolate — let's save the cups for the house, was the cry —). The main feature of the weekend was the attempt by the girls of the MOC to bucksaw and crosscut. (We understand now why the RVC ski house is sinking into the ground.)

SPLASH! SPLASH! SPLASH! That's Lib Pierson (That doesn't sound right to me), and Bob Briggs preparing for the MOC "splash party", to be held on November 28th, — a Saturday night — in the swimming pool of the gym. The splash will start at 5 p.m., and at 7 p.m. there will be time out for supper (everyone bring their own). At 8 p.m. there will be a square dance in the gym itself. So the order of things is: 1. splash party, 2. supper, 3. square dance, "Three in one", that's the slogan for the MOC's Splash party to be held November 28th at Sir Arthur Currie. We'll have more about this event next week.

The part of Mathias is played by Ed Childo, who is Medicine. This is his first part in a McGill play, as he has come recently from the University of British Columbia.

The rest of the cast includes Jacky Ney, who takes the part of the first girl, Miss Ney, born in Paris, played Phaedra in "Hippolytus" for the English Department, and took part in experiments for the Players Club. Eva Pilar, an honours History student, plays the second girl.

Also included in the play is Gregory Friend, in masters English, who last year played the title role in "Hippolytus" and a featured role in M.R.T.'s "St. Joan".
